OUTLINES.

The earthquake calamity in Chile is appalling, the loss of life in Valparaiso being estimated at from 1,000 to 5,000; the city is a prey to continued quakes and fire and the population is fleeing in terror; at Santiago 30 people were killed and the property loss $2,000,000; numerous towns in Chile were destroyed; it is believed that disturbance is of volcanic origin.——At Asbury Park last night a train ran into an automobile, killing three persons and seriously injuring another.——The New York State Supreme Court refuses to allow the Census Bureau statisticians to open divorce records.——In Russia yesterday seventeen mutineers were condemned to death and many sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. At Warsaw three bombs were thrown at the carriage of the Governor General and he suffered concussion of the barin.——A serious revolution has broken out in Santo Domingo. the rebels captured a town, killed 20 people, and the northern part of the republic is in a state of anarchy.——Scott Howington, son of an aged minister, was stabbed to death by Muncy Talley at Bristol, Va., yesterday.——The International American Conference adheres to the Drago doctrine declaring against armed force to collect debts.——At Warsaw, Poland, 38 dead were found in the streets and 472 wounded persons have been treated in the hospitals.——There is confirmations that several revolutionary bands are operating in Cuba.——New York Markets: Money on call nominal, no loans, time loans very firm; spot cotton quiet, 10.10; flour dull, unchanged; wheat easy, No. 2 red, 76⅝ elevator; corn irregular, No. 2 red, 56¼ elevator; oats steady, mixed 36½; turpentine dull, 62 to 62½; rosin quiet.

The "mob" which lynched the negro brute at Greenwood, S. C., appreciated the motives of Governor Heyward but just couldn't approve of them.

The Raleigh News and Observer states that fully 100 North Carolinians will attend the Bryan reception in New York, September 30th. It is not necessary to say that they will carry tom-toms so as to make a joyful noise on the band wagon.

Our South American sister Republics would probably like to have more of the reciprocity which the Republicans stifle instead of so much of our whang-doodlism. Talk's cheap but it takes reciprocal trade relations to do business.

The esteemed Chatham Record has celebrated its 28th birthday and has launched out upon its 29th year. There are few papers as staunch and true as the Record and it is not only influential and valuable at home but is a power for good in the State.

The Hon. R. N. Hackett, Democratic nominee for Congress in the Eighth Congressional District, is as cheerful an election prognosticator as Arkansaw Jones. He says he is going to beat Blackburn by 3,000 majority. So mote it be.

What is to be done with Mr. Roosevelt after he becomes an ex-President, is a source of speculation remarks an exchange. Something ought to be done with him before he takes it into his head to tell it all over in the magazines.

A man known as a "dietary expert" and an inventor of a "foodstuff warranted to preserve the health indefinitely," died a few days ago in Atlantic City. There is no intention herein to throw off on the man's "foodstuff" and to show that malice doesn't lead us in that direction, it is well enough to state that the "dietary expert" met his death in Atlantic City because he went up against a "big bait" of crabs.

Says the Savannah Morning News: "'Alice Webb Un-Duked,' is the headline that the New York Sun puts on an item relating the fact that a decree divorcing the wife of Brodie L. Duke, the tobacco manufacturer, had been granted by the Supreme Court." The North Carolina Duke was rather De-Webbed, and having gotten out of the "entangling alliance," speaking after the manner of George Washington, it is presumed that he will always bestow his sympathy on a fly when he sees it tied up with a webb.

THEATRICAL SEASON

Notable List of Attractions Are Booked By Local Management for 1906-1907.

OPENING SEPTEMBER 7th

Murray & Mack Will Start Round of Amusements at Local Playhouse For Coming Fall and Winter—Two Lyceum Numbers.

The wane of the Summer season toward the approach of September 1st., admonishes one that in a week or two the pleasures of the beach and mountain resorts will give place to the theatre. The approaching season at the Academy of Music in this city promises to be one of the most successful in years, not only in point of attendance with the constantly increasing population of the city, but also as to the class of the attractions that will be offered. Messrs. Cowan Brothers & Schloss have had their arrangements for the season of 1906-07 under way for some time and through their booking agents, Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger, of New York, have secured a very fine list of attractions.

A glance at the date book of Manager Cowan, of the theatre, gives the information that the opening of the playhouse will be on September 7th., with Murray & Mack, in that breezy musical comedy "Around the Town." This will be followed on the 11th. by Jane Kennark, in Clyde Fitch's great success "The Toast of the Town," which is expected to prove one of the delights of the season. The story of the play is laid in the time of George, the Third and relates the adventures of a famous actress of that time. Miss Kennark, who was seen to such great advantage in "Eternal City" last season, will play the character of Betty Singleton, the actress and the "toast" of all London, in the piece selected for her this season. On the 13th., of the month, that old favorite "Human Hearts" will be seen again and will no doubt be as popular with lovers of melodrama as of yore. On the 15th., of September, George Ade's first success, "The Sultan of Zulu," will be seen, a big musical comedy production. On the 17th., we are to have a return of the ever-popular Al. G. Field and his merry minstrels, bigger and brighter than ever this season. "Mistakes Will Happen" will hold the boards on the 22nd., of the month, and a week later, on the 29th., will be seen "Finnegan's Ball," of which Mr. C. W. Hollowbush, of this city, is manager for Mr. S. A. Schloss.

The October list of offerings will include the favorite musical comedy "Sergeant Kitty," a big scenic pro-

ROOSEVELT'S NEW AND SPECTACULAR PLAN OF CAMPAIGN

ROOSEVELT MUST BE ENDORSED!!

THE PRESIDENT WILL BE DELIGHTED IF WE'RE RE-ELECTED
ADAMS JOKE BOOK
BEDE
YES, A DOLLAR DELIGHTS US!

At a conference recently held at Oyster Bay at the instance of President Roosevelt, and participated in by prominent Republican leaders, it was decided to send Speaker Cannon into the doubtful Congressional districts on a stumping tour. Associated with him will be Adam Bede, the "funny man" on the Republican side of the House of Representatives, and Representative Watson, who is a fine singer. President Roosevelt is deeply interested in the result of the Congressional election to be held next November, and if the Republicans retain control of the House he will feel that his policies have been indorsed. The cartoon printed above, through the courtesy of The Washington Post, is one of Artist Berryman's best creations and illustrates strikingly the Roosevelt plan of campaign oratory, jokes and music.

TOURNEY THIS WEEK

Programme For Inter-State Meet Here Wednesday and Thursday Announced Yesterday—Rules and Regulations to Govern.

The programme for the Inter-State Gun Club Tournament in this city on Wednesday and Thursday of this week was announced by the committee in charge yesterday and the prize list will be found a very inviting one for the gunners of the State. There are to be no handicaps and each day there will be $100 in added money. There will be ten events the first day and $10 added money for each. The second day's programme will be the same except that in one event there will be 25 Blue Rocks, five men, club team shoot.

The folowing are the rules laid down for governing the tournament and will be observed to the letter:

Purses will be divided according to the Percentage System. 30, 25, 20, 15 and 10.

American Association rules will apply.

RAILWAY CLERKS

South Atlantic Division Will Meet in Wilmington This Morning For Important Work—Visitors From All Over A. C. L. System.

An important meeting of the South Atlantic Division of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, embracing all the important points on the Atlantic Coast Line, will be held in this city to-day. A number of delegates arrived in the city on the late trains last night and others are expected this morning. The attendance of visitors is expected to fully 75 with probably as many from the city. The meetings will be held in the old I. O. O. F. Hall, on Third street, and the hours will be from 10 to 11 A. M., for those not members of the Brotherhood, but interested in the work, and closed sessions before and after the general meeting. At 11 o'clock, the Brotherhood men in attendance upon the meeting will attend divine services in a body.

The purpose of the meeting is to concentrate the interests of Brotherhood men all over the Division and to discuss plans and steps for mutual good. The local members of the organization are preparing to give the visitors a cordial welcome and will entertain them in fine style while in the city.

As most of the men are required to be at their desks at the usual hours Monday morning, most of the visitors will leave for their homes on the afternoon train to-day.

Interesting Services Sunday Night.

At the 8 o'clock service at the Brooklyn Baptist church Sunday night Rev. John W. Lowe, D. D., of Laichowfu, China, will speak on the great work of the North China Mission. Dr. Lowe is an earnest speaker and missionary worker and those who hear him may expect to be helped. Pastor J. A. McKanghan will preach at the morning service on "The Endowment of the Church." The public cordially invited to each service.

All white ready-to-wear garments will be sold for cost at Polvogt's this week. **

Visit Polvogt's this week and attend Wessons cooking oil demonstration.

CITY GARBAGE PLANT

Proposition of Toledo Concern Received With Favor by Aldermen in Conference Last Night—State Fair Exhibit Endorsed.

The Board of Aldermen in conference last night, in the Mayor's office at the City Hall, received with great favor the proposition of Mr. George N. Bell, Jr., of the Dixon Garbage Crematory Company, of Toledo, Ohio, for the installation of a disposal plant in this city. While, of course, no action could be taken in a conference, the Aldermen heard Mr. Bell with great interest and were convinced of the soundness of the several propositions laid down by him and of the merits of the Dixon process. It was decided to have Mr. Bell remain in the city until Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when a special meeting of the Board will be held to officially entertain a proposition from him, the same to go to the Board of Audit and Finance for its rejection or approval at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

There were present at the conference last night Mayor Pro Tem. O'Brien, presiding, Aldermen W. H. Yopp, W. E. Yopp, W. W. King, J. O. Brown, R. W. Price, Dr. C. T. Harper, city superintendent of health, City Engineer P. Matthew and Mr. L. B. Rogers, president of the Merchants' Association, which organiztion recently adopted resolutions urging upon the city authorities the absolute necessity of a disposal pant. Aldermen Johnson and Moore were at the meeting earlier in the evening, but found it impossible to stay until it was over.

Mr. Bell, the representative, submitted plans in detail of plants of different sizes and testimonials from many cities and the United States government relative to the merits of the Dixon process. It was decided that a twin plant of 15 or 20 tons capacity each, is about what is needed here. The cost of the smaller plant would be about $12,000; that of the larger, about $15,000. It was shown that the saving of the long haul would more than pay the cost of the interest on the amount of money invested besides paying for all deterioration and contributing much to the sanitary condition of the city. The proposition was regarded as a most favorable one

CITY LEAGUE CLOSE

Postponed and Tie Games Now Only to Be Played for Championship.

WEAK PLAYING YESTERDAY

Y. M. C. A. and Champions Tied In Ninth Inning in Poor Exhibition—Giants Deliver Final Drubbing to Monarchs.

Standing of the Clubs.

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
S. S. R.	6	2	750
Y. M. C. A.	7	3	700
M. S. G.	7	4	636
Monarchs	0	11	.000

Although the games in the City Baseball League yesterday afternoon were not up to the high standard of the season, the fact that they closed the regular schedule for the season was sufficient to draw a large crowd of the patrons of the sport and the teams were cheered to the echo. However, the battle is yet to be won, for the champion Rattlers and the Y. M. C. A. played each other to a standstill yesterday and there are a number of ties and postponed games yet to be pulled off that may materially affect the standing of the clubs in the percentage column. The first game yesterday afternoon resulted in a shut-out of the Monarchs by the Market Street Giants in a score of five to nothing and the tie between Rattlers and Y. M. C. A., was in a score of nine to nine.

In the first game the Giants gradually piled up the five runs on the tail-enders, but in doing so they had to contest for every inch of ground. The game was easily the best of the two and without prejudice to the Giants, there were many who sincerely hoped that the Monarchs could at least win one game before the schedule was up. But they were unable to connect with the ball at any opportune time and thereby hangs the tale.

Batteries: Myers and Moore; Banck and Lacy.

Summary—Earned runs, M. S. G., 4. First base on balls, off Banck, 1. Struck out, by Myers, 2; by Banck, 7. Double play, Seifert to Brinkley to Thees. Passed ball, Lacy, 1. First base on errors, Monarchs, 3; M. S. G., 6. Hit by pitched ball, Moore and Lacy, L. Time 1:22. Umpire, Mr. L. T. Moore.

The second game, although between the leaders of the League, was the rankest ever. At times the pitchers were doing aerial stunts while the infield crawled all around the field after liners and balls thrown to the bases. Jewell, behind the willow for the Seventh Street Rattlers, was injured several times, and was not himself after the first one or two innings. The game was slow and uninteresting except for the comedy of errors and an occasional distinguishing play by one team or the other.

The Score:	R.	H.	E.
Y. M. C. A.	9	4	10
S. S. R.	9	7	9

Batteries: Pope and Houston and Duls and King; Sallings and Jewell.

Summary—Earned runs, Y. M. C. A., 5; S. S. R., 6. Two base hit, King, U. First base on balls, off Pope, 2; Duls, 1; Sallings, 4. Struck out by Pope 6; Duls, 2; Sallings, 6. Passed ball, Jewell, 3. First base on errors, Y. M. C. A., 8; S. S. R, 6. Time 2 hours. Umpire, Mr. Louis Moore.

It is probable that the Giants and Y M. C. A. will play doubleheaders next Saturday and that the postponed and tie games betwen all the teams will be played off on Labor Day. The remaining games will be watched with great interest as they will decide the championship of the League for which a handsome pennant is offered by A. G. Spalding.

Address Carpenters and Joiners.

Mr. H. A. Hopkins, of the American Federation of Labor, will address the Carpenters and Joiners of the city in Union Hall, over the Atlantic National Bank, at 8:30 o'clock to-morrow night. All carpenters are asked to be present.

The C. W. Polvogt Co.'s Sale.

Beginning tomorrow morning and continuing until all are sold the Polvogt Co. has placed on sale all their white lawns and silk waists—white lawn suits, white duck and linen skirts all of which are to be sold at cost. The ladies will appreciate being able to purchase goods like these at cost. Call early while they still have your size. **

TOBACCO TRUST METHODS.

The National Wholesale Grocers Association, it is announced from New York, is making a strong effort to rid themselves for good and all of the incubus of partial control of the activities of their travelling salesmen by manufacturers. It is said the effort has the hearty concurrence of wholesale grocers all over the country

The plan now is to shut off absolutely the system of what the wholesalers call petty graft or subsidization, whereby a salesman can add to his legitimate income by "pushing" some particular brand of goods. The most aggravating case, the grocers say, was that of the American Tobacco Company, which, until the action of the executive committee of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association, was offering to grocery salesmen many valuable premiums for giving particular attention to its brands of tobacco. The most inviting offer, and the one that most offended the jobbers, was that of 25 cents for every case of smoking tobacco the salesman sold. All the salesman had to do was to report at the end of the month that he had sold so many cases of tobacco, and the American Tobacco Company mailed him a check on the basis of 25 cents a case.

The executive committee of ... National Wholesale Grocers' Association, at its recent meeting in Chicago appointed a sub-committee of which William Todd, of Kansas, was made chairman, to confer with a few of the worst offenders looking to some sort of an adjustment of the matter. Those of the manufacturers who were seen, it is reported, took kindly to the suggestion of the committe and agreed that if the jobbers would make no quest as separate firms for the withdrawal of the offers to the salesmen, they would gladly accede to the request. The position taken by the manufacturers was that they wanted to be assured of a more general desire for doing away with the practice, the mere request of the committee of the association not being deemed sufficient to show the exact status.

A second proposition was made the manufacturers that, if they would pay the jobbers the 25 cents as a means of stimulating sales instead of giving it to the salesmen, the jobbers would let the matter stand. But the manufacturers would not agree to that, preferring to cancel all offers of a premium nature. It looks like a bad break that the wholesalers made to take the "graft" themselves instead of alowing it to go to their salesmen.

It is stated that the New York jobbing grocers have long discountenanced the salesmen's premium schemes of manufacturers, but notwithstanding their vigilance they have not altogether escaped the detrimental effects of such practices. They express the hope that the work of the national association may prove effectual in stamping out the evil.

The practice to pay salesmen premiums is common all over the United States.

COTTON MILLS HAVE TO CURTAIL.

The scarcity of labor on the farms is not any more pronounced than it is in the manufacturing industries of this section. A dispatch from Charlotte illustrates how the shortage of mill help will seriouly interfere with the productive capacity of our cotton mills. It is all the more to be depicted from the fact that there is a widespread demand for cotton products, and that our mills will have to curtail their product in the midst of a certain demand.

The dispatch says:

"Something new under the sun is beng reported by the cotton mills of the Southwestern section this week. It is inability to produce over four-fifths of their possible product because of the scarcity of labor. Stated in a few words, this condition amounts to a reduction of eighty per cent. of the average capacity of the cotton mills and as a result nearly all the mills offer on contract not over four-fifths of their average capacty. In other words, a 20,000 spindle mill will not sell goods on contract up to a given date over the amount that could be turned out under ordinary circumstances by a 16,000 spindle mill running full help. This is coming pretty close home to the pockets of the manufacturers and they have realized it will offer eighty per cent. of their full capacity and not a pound of yarn or a yard over this. The 20 per cent. loss is considerable and of course, represents among many millions invested in mills a loss of thousands of dollars in money tied up in machinery that cannot be utilied to its full extent."

Charlotte is the milling centre of the South and the situaton is no doubt accurately stated.

THE MAGAZINES.

Pearson's Magazine for September is full of interest from beginning to end. There is a variety of literature that enchains the reader, and the illustrations are exceedingly attractive. It would be a vain task to attempt to give an idea of the contents, but in Pearson's we read of "The Real Mr. Hearst," by James Creelman, a notable and readable article with new lights and most entertainly illustrated. Rene Bach writes of "What Easy Divorce Means," and Kate V. Saint Maur again contributes one of her series of articles on "A Self-Supporting Home." However, there are other features equal in merit, and it is not worth while to say more. Pearson's is sent a year for $1 and sells at 10 cents per copy. Address Pearson Publishing Co.; 2 to 20 Astor Place. N. Y.

The September number of the American Magazine is on our round table. To the reader it is a thing of delight. The table of contents embraces great variety and in it is rare entertainment and enlightenment. The literary feature is marked and the articles on current matters are contributed by strong and able writers. Among the articles is "An Awakening in Wall Street—How the Trusts, After Years of Silence, Now Speak Through Authorized and Acknowledged Press Agents." That intensely interesting article is by Spencer Morse and another one to be mentioned is by E. S. Johnson, who writes of "The Younger Generation." These are just samples of the splendid contents of this superior magazine, the subscription price of which is $1.00 a year; 10 cents per copy. Address Colver

DEATH STARED HIM IN THE FACE

Victim of Whiskey Habit Would Have Been in Grave But for Keeley Treatment—Made Him New Man.

The Keeley Institute, Greensboro, N. C.:

I want to thank you all for the kind treatment I received while at the Keeley Institute at Greensboro, N. C. I will soon be sixty years old, and had been a whiskey drinker for forty years, and for the last ten years a very heavy drinker. I have always been a man that thought a great deal of his credit, but I got to the point where it was getting shaky, and I was ashamed to meet my creditors and friends. I was in a terrible fix, and I tried every way to quit drinking, but I could not do so. I saw death staring me in the face.

I was always opposed to going to Keeley, but at last I made up my mind to go, and I went to Greensboro eghteen months ago, and I am proud of the fact that I went. I am a new man and a better man with more energy than I ever had before. I owe it all to the Keeley Cure, and the kind Doctor and good attendants at the Keeley Institute.

A. A. MOODY.

Send names and addresses of those who may be benefitted to the Keeley Institute, Greensboro, N. C

Publishing Co., 141-147 Fifth avenue, New York.

One of the most superb and thoroughly excellent publications which comes to The Star is the Woman's Home Companion. The September number is here and it is a paragon of attractiveness and interest. It is only necessary to say that its literary, art, fashion and home science departments are complete, for the magazine is too pronounced a favorite to require extended notice. It is on sale at 10 cents per copy. Subscription price $1.00 per annum. Address The Crowell Publishing Co., Madison Square, New York.

The mere fact that The Delineator for September is out is sufficient to challenge the interest of the ladies far and wide. It is a charming and delightful publication for the lady of fashion, the housewife and the woman of refined taste. It tells all about the Fall fashions in dress and millinery and its reading matter is in great variety and delightful in every respect. As usual the magazine is profusely and beautifully illustrated. Subscription price $1.00 a year; 15 cents per copy. Address Butterick Publishing Co., New York.

The ladies will be interested in the September number of that delightful publication—McCall's Magaine. It is charmingly illustrated and not only do we get a glimpse of the autumn fashions, but much valuable home reading. This popular publication sells at 5 cents per copy and is sent a year for 50 cents. Address The McCall Publishing Co., 236-246 West Thirty-seventh street, New York.

In his county of Macon he was looked upon as the leading citizen, a man whose advice was sought in all public matters, on whose judgment the people relied and whose honesty and integrity were such as to dignify every enterprise to which he loaned his name or movement in which he raised his voice.—Raleigh News and Observer.

—When Senator La Follette was a candidate for gubernatorial honors in Wisconsin in 1904, he protested against the Senators from the Badger State attempting to dictate in matters of State politics. Now, although he is a United States Senator, he is going to take an active part in the campaign to secure the nomination and election of his candidate as chief executive of the State. The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, in commenting on this change of base, says that they do. Politics hailed as the wildest radicalism on the part of the opposition party are regarded as conservative by the same voters when adopted by their own party. So, too, with the individual, he criticizes in other points that he would not admit were faults in his own course.—Boston Herald.

THE STRENGTH OF A BANK

Like that of a powerful locomotive, depends upon the men who run it.

The Southern National Bank is owned by 180 successful business men of this section; is supervised by the United States Government, and and no twenty stockholders hold enough stock to direct its affairs

It seeks safety rather than large profits, never charging more than the legal rate, six per cent, for money loaned, and seeks the accounts only of that class of industrious people who try to build their own fortunes.

Capital and Surplus $300,000.00.

A Merciless Critic

[Original.]

When love and marriage were spoken of between me and Herbert Whittlesey I told him that I was in love with my art and should never marry unless some man inspired me with a grand passion.

"Or fool you into loving him."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I have no faith in these grand passions. Give me jog trot love that starts slowly, but goes right along at a steady gait."

"None of your jog trot love for me, thank you."

"Oh, you don't need any kind of love, since you are so devoted to plastering paint on canvas. Perhaps you may be disappointed in having to be a jog trot artist."

"You mean that I have no talent," I replied, flushing. "You are brutally frank to say so."

"Would you want me to injure you by misleading you?"

"No one can predict what one will do in any profession. I think critics should confine themselves to calling our attention to defects in our works."

"Well, then, your coloring in that wood"—

"What wood?"

"There," pointing.

"That isn't a wood. It's sky."

"You don't mean it."

"Any other defects?"

"The haystack on the right"—

"You mean the cascade."

"Wrong again."

I did not dare to speak. Tears were struggling into my eyes, and I needed all my attention to keep them back. Besides, I knew my voice would tremble.

He had the consideration to take his departure. As soon as he was gone I cried for awhile, then anger came, and I vowed I would succeed in spite of him. I had been putting on the finishing touches to the picture he was criticising, and it was practically finished. I laid it away in a corner and went to work on another.

A few days later a dealer came into my studio and asked if I had any pictures to sell cheap. I showed him several practice pieces, but he did not want them. Seeing the picture that had been so unmercifully criticised, he offered me what I would, even before the criticism, have regarded a fair price for it, and I sold it to him. When he paid for it the next day he offered me a check that he had himself secured for it, asking me to give him his commission in cash, since he had acted as a broker. I counted out the commission, took the check and was about to stuff it in my pocketbook when the name of its drawer caught my eye. It was Herbert Whittlesey.

My first impulse was to call back the broker and cancel the sale, but it occurred to me at once that I would have no right—indeed, no ability—to do so. I was indignant that Herbert Whittlesey should have soothed my wounded feelings with his charity—for that's what I considered it—and had he come in to my studio at the time I should have given him a "piece of my mind." But after awhile my feelings with regard to the matter changed. Was he not treating me kindly in telling me the truth as to my lack of talent and buying my daub? For the first time I realized that I loved him.

From the time he mistook my sky for a wood and my cascade for a haystack I was doomed to failure. I painted on bravely, but as an artist I had received my death wound. One morning he came into my studio when I was completely discouraged and suggested I give up art and marry him. I was a good deal astonished, but perfectly willing to acknowledge myself a failure, and take up the more humdrum role of wife.

When I received the congratulations of my friends they were but congratulations in name, for every one said: "What a pity. A genius is spoiled."

"Deceivers," I said. "You would doom me to a life of failure. It is the man whom I am to marry who has won my love by telling me the truth." I think that, on hearing this, most of them were convinced that they had been mistaken, for my lover was considered one of the best of art critics.

In due time we were married. Herbert fitted up a house, indeed I joined him in selecting its decoration, and on returning from our wedding trip we went to live there. On entering the living room I saw something hanging on the wall that had not been there at the time of our departure, something that made me start. It was the picture that Herbert had so unmercifully criticised, then bought.

"Take that thing down," I said to him, with hot cheeks.

"Thing? It's a gem."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I wanted a woman for my wife. She was in love with her art. If she had not been born to that art her infatuation would not have troubled me. As it was, I saw that either I must kill her love for her art or it would kill her love for me."

I stood stock still in astonishment.

"And you have fooled me into loving you."

"If you choose to call it so."

"Herbert, you are deceiving me. That picture is a daub."

He went to a secretary and took out a batch of letters and handed them to me. They were offers for the picture from dealers, some of them being four times as much as he had paid me for it.

I threw my arms around his neck. He had won the last bit of my heart. There was no more to win. And yet—he had fooled me.

Invitations to a marriage, of much interest to a large circle of friends, were issued last week by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Howard Paddison, of Burgaw. The bride-elect is one of the most popular young women of Pender, whose charming personality has drawn around her a host of friends who have extended best wishes for her life's happiness. The groom has many friends who know him to be deserving of the congratulations showered upon him. The invitations read:

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Howard Paddison invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter Eleanor
to
Mr. Harry Alonzo Cook
Wednesday, August the twenty-ninth,
Nineteen hundred and six,
at twelve o'clock,

From a correspondent to the Charlotte Observer in Lincolnton, N. C., we learn that Miss Kate Curtis, who is very pleasantly known here, proved a most generous hostess to a number of her friends, last Thursday afternoon, whom she entertained in honor of her guests, Mrs. Thos. C. James, of Wilmington, and Miss Margaret Haughton, of Charlotte. A literary guessing contest, a clever conception of the hostess' own, made the afternoon most interesting. When this feature of the afternoon was over, Miss Katherine Hoke charmed everyone with several songs given in her happiest manner.

On the following Monday afternoon Mrs. James and Miss Haughton were informally entertained by Mrs. Annie Nichol Hoke. Delicious Summertime refreshments were served on the lower veranda to the guests, Mrs. James, Miss Haughton, Miss Katherine Curtis, Miss Lizzie Curtis, Mrs. Anna McBee, Miss Kate Shipp and Miss Lucy Tiddy, who, together with the hostess, Mrs. Hoke, Miss Katherine Hoke, Miss Sally Nichol and Miss Kate Nichol, passed a charming afternoon in what is always declared to be, a most charming spot.

Miss Katherine Hoke, who is so pleasantly spoken of is the affianced bride of Mr. John Hall, of this city.

The beautiful and cozy home of Capt. and Mrs. William L. Beery, on Market street, was the scene of a very beautiful morning card party last Thursday, to which the following invitations were sent to friends:

Miss Louise Beery
Miss Cornie Fore
At Home
August sixteenth
11 o'clock. R. S. V. P.

Miss Fore, of Charlotte, is the attractive guest at the Beery home and the entertainment was given in her honor. The pretty rooms and halls were tastefully decorated with palms and ferns and cut flowers were in beautiful bowls and vases in positions which added a touch of grace to the beauty of the decorations, carrying out most admirably the color scheme of pink and green. The prize, a lovely bunch of pink roses and ferns tied with broad pink ribbon bows, was won by Miss Isabel Smallbones, while Miss Helen Clark was awarded "the booby,' a Japanese doll. Miss Beery's guests were: Miss Cornie Fore (Charlotte), Miss Theo. Cantwell, Miss Helen Clark, Miss Jane Iredell Green, Miss Olive Quince, Miss Bessie Watters, Miss Ione Scott, Miss Ella Jacobs, Miss Mellie Cotchet, Miss Lucy Poisson, Miss Christine Stevenson, Miss Isabel Smallbones, Miss Bessie Loder, Miss Florrie Grant, Miss Ella Higgs (Raleigh), Miss Annie Hill Holmes, Miss Amoret Lord, Miss Helen Solomon, Miss Bessie Albright, Miss Laura Well and Miss Athalia LeGrand.

MARRIAGE OF MISS HOGE TO ITALIAN COUNT.

Because of the large circle of acquaintances in this city, of the bride, we give in full the Louisville Courier-Journal's account of the marrage on the 9th inst., of Miss Virginia Hoge to the Marchese Emilo San Germano, of Rome, Italy:,

One of the most brilliant, as well as one of the most beautiful weddings ever solemnized in Louisville, was that of Miss Virginia Randolph Bolling Hoge and the Marchese Emilo San Germano, of Rome, Italy, which took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Warren Memorial church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Peyton Harrison Hoge, the father of the bride.

Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony the church was filled with the friends of Miss Hoge and her family, and the following musical programme was given by Mr. Carl Shackelton, the organist of the church, and the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Matthias Oliver:

Triumphal March, Guilman, Mr. Shackleton.

Violin solo, Andantino Lamar, Mr. Oliver.

Meditation, St. Clair, organ and orcheatra.

Serenade, Hillman, trio for violins.

Cantinque d'Amour, Elgar, Mr. Olivez.

The church was decorated with palms, smilax. asparagus plumosa and pink roses.

The pulpit was hidden under masses of foliage studded in pink roses, and grouped about the base were potted plants and Boston ferns.

The ushers were Messrs. John Grant, William Hoge, Helm Strater, Jack Terry and Dr. Charles Garth.

The bridesmaids were Misses Gertrude Belknap, Lucinda Trabue, Eva Lee Smith, Ethel Newman and Margaret Rodes (of Danville).

In the bridal procession the ushers came first and following them came the bridesmaids, then the maid of honor, Miss Mary Hoge, who immediately preceded her sister.

The bride entered with her uncle, Mr. A. Randolph Holladay, of Richmond, Va., and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Harry Strater.

The bridal party entered the church to the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. During the ceremony Evening Star from Tannhauser was played. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the party left the church.

Miss Hoge's gown was a superb princesa robe of satin duchesse, with long court train. Two panels of priceless old rose point lace extended down the front of the gown and were tapered at the waist line by clusters of tiny tucks. The low round corsage was filled in with a yoke of tulle banded with heavy white satin cords. A bertha of the rose point lace was draped at the top of he corsage. The lace collar at the top of the yoke of the gown was recently woven in Italy in the pattern of the panels and bertha. The sleeves were of tulle banded with the satin cords and finished above the elbow with the ruching held with satin cords. The court train was also banded with satin cords.

The bride's veil of tulle was fastened to her hair with a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of white roses tied with tulle.

Her jewels were a neckace of diamonds and pearls and a corsage brooch of diamonds in the form of a true-lovers' knot, the gifts of the Marchese.

Miss Mary Hoge wore a princess gown of white mul mounted over pink silk and trimmed in Valenciennes lace with a scarf of pink silk draped around the waist, and she wore a wreath of pink roses in her hair and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

The bridesmaids' gowns were of white mull incrusted in Valenciennes lace and had broad pink sashes, defining the waist. They carried shower bouquets of pink roses.

Mrs. Hoge, the bride's mother, wore a beautiful and becoming gown of white crepe de chine trimmed in duchesse lace. Mrs. Hoge was accompanied by Mr. Randolph H. Blain.

Following the ceremony at the church there was a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, 414 West Oak street.

The drawing room, in which the bride and groom stood to receive congratulations, was charmingly decorated in pink roses and foliage.

The hall, where the walls are hung in red, had a frieze of Southern smilax, with the flags of America and Italy crossed at intervals.

The bride's table was beautiful in every detail, being laid in a magnificent Italian lace cover and ornamented in the center with a flat, oval mat of pink roses, around which were grouped silver candalebra holding pink candles shaded in pink and silver. The place cards were unusually pretty and artistic, and were of parchment, with the seals of the families of the bride and groom in gold.

The bride's gifts to her maids were gold brooches in the shape of a wishbone, ornamented with pearls.

The groomsmen received gold wishbone scarfpina, set in pearls.

The bride's travelling gown was of Alice blue cloth, and with it she wore a hat of the same shade. Her jewels were diamonds and sapphires.

The Marchese and the Marchesa San Germano left at midnight for the East, where they will spend ten days before sailing for Naples. They will go to Arpino to one of the Marchese's villas, and in the autumn will go to Rome.

The bride is descended from a number of the most aristocratic old families in Virginia and South Carolina, being related to the Harrisons, the Bollings, the Randolphs, the Holladays and the Pinckneys. In addition to her beauty, she possesses a fine voice, and the cordial grace and charm of manner that so well qualify her to fill the high position she will occupy in Italian society.

The Marchese San Germano belongs to an old ducal family of Piedmont, the title having been granted by Victor Amadeo II., first King of Sardina. On his mother's side he is entitled to use the additional titles of "dei Marchesi Amati, et dei Principi di Franceville, et Principe di Bisignani, Grande di Spagna." He has the rights and privileges of a Knight of the Garter, and is of the Order of First Knight of the Bath.

His only sister is the Duchessa Caracciolidella Casa-Massima.

The Misses Hoge were entertained at the home of the Duca and Duchessa previous to their sailing for America.

Probably no bride in Louisville ever received such handsome gifts as were sent to Miss Hoge. In addition to a most unusual array of silver, she received quantities of beautiful jewels. At Miss Hoge's request the jewels and presents given by the Marchese's family were not sent to America.

In addition to the necklace and brooch the Marchese gave his affianced wife a plastron of pearls and diamonds and a number of beautiful rings.

Among the handsomest of the gifts were a pendant of rubies and diamonds, set in platinum; a collar of amethysts set in gold, two jeweled bracelets, several pearl brooches, a gold purse with the top studded in diamonds and sapphires.

As you see, we can sell goods at a profit of 25 per cent. and at the same time sell them for just what they would cost us if we bought in small quantities, paid local freight and bought on time. We do not try to make 25 per cent.

Our claim is corroborated by the number of prudent purchasers we send. For June the 1st to the present, we have sold $4,540.21 worth of goods, received more than $3,300.00 in cash. Our books are open for inspection of any doubters. When in need of furniture come to headquarters.

ADVERTISE IN THE MORNING STAR

HARNETT COUNTY'S DISTINGUISHED SON

HON. HANIBAL L. GODWN NEXT CONGRESSMAN FROM SIXTH DISTRICT—NOMINATING SPEECH OF HON. W. A. STEWART AT FAYETTEVILLE.

Mr. Chairman and fellow Democrats of the Sixth Congressional District:

Harnett county, too, has a candidate; he is her son; he is to the manor born. Harnett county is proud of him on account of his brilliancy, his sturdy character and scrupulous honesty. The first time that he beheld the "gray eyed morn smile on the frowning night," he was within her borders, and the first time he observed the light of day as it was "silently dying" down the deep and narrow pathway of the "golden tinted" west, he was snugly tucked in his swaddling clothes in a devoted mother's arms under the protection and tutelage of a godly father, on Harnett county soil. He has ever remained true to the interests of the mother county and to its people.

He was reared by a sturdy parentage, by that class of people who strongly believe in the final perserverance of the saints. He was reared as a farmer's boy, by a parentage who knew and cared nothing for the lordly claim of a distinguished royal or ducal ancestry. A people who cared nothing, and in fact, would have scorned the empty claim of titled privilege, but whose paramount idea and fondest ambition was a noble character and sterling worth. They were a godly folk; they despised oppression and hated the wrong. They believed with Robert E. Lee that "duty" was the grandest word in the English language.

In Europe their ancestors had fought under Cromwell at Marston Moor and Naseby Field against the divine right of Kings and for freedom of conscience. When the Lord Protector had gone to the bosom of the everlasting God, he so much loved and worshipped, and the Anglo-Saxon Englishmen had recalled their indolent King, they in peace, fought in the councils of the English nation for freedom of the press, free religious tolerance and the character of liberty, always standing for a scrupulous honesty in private and public life.

Years after this, when sectional feeling had forced a civil war, and the rallying drum-beat which called "to arms," rolled over "Dixie;' the flower of the young manhood of the South is mobilized, the martial music of our beloved country falls on the patriots ears, and with a devotion to duty equal to that which emulated the Black Prince at Crecy or the Knight of the Garter at Calais, or Agincourt, his father, a cavalier of the South, entered this war with a sorowful heart, but wtih a soul clear in the sense of tragic duty. In a few years the last act of the terrible tragedy was closed. Grim chimneys marked the site of once fair and beautiful homes; hedgerows of tangled blackberry briar and bushes showed where the Southern farmer's fence had stood before war breathed upon the land with its breath of fire, and harrowed it with its teeth of steel. Soldiers of Conde and Marlborough, of Eugene or William, the Silent, in bygone days of defeated chivalry, had never looked upon such devastation and destruction. Amidst this scene and this tragical environment, his own father returned from the field of duty to his country to perform a higher and more exalted duty to family and home. He in fact, had no family then, but in a short time there came from a neighboring farm a beautiful maiden who trustingly placed her hand in his, and from this beginning there sprung up many bright-faced boys and curly-haired girls, like so many flowers, in this country home. In imagination I can see this father, and husband, as the evening shadows begin to fall and the darkness encircle this home, take down the old family Bible, soiled by finger prints long since stilled, blurred by tear drops from eyes long ago closed in eternal sleep, containing the simple annals and the hearts of the family, and read from it the old, old story of love and devotion; and then I can see him as he goes down on bended knee and call from the radiant throne of an everlasting God, the benedictions of love and religion on the home, the family and the state. It was amid these environments, from this stock, our candidate came.

I have told you he was a farmer's boy. Yes, he worked upon this Harnett country farm and spent his young manhood there with nothing to cheer him onward and upward except the admonitions of his sturdy sire and the ambitious and restless spirit of his own youthful soul. While the cricket whirred in the fence corner, the king of song sat upon the topmost twig in the orchard and warbled forth his beautiful symphony, the locust bug sang his welcome to approaching summer around and over him, the whispering winds and the falling waters all joined in one unbroken unison, with the music of nature and his young and manly heart, to emulate and strengthen him to nobler and grander things. The farm work is finished, we next see him in the schoolroom, first as a student and then as a teacher. In a few years again he is a student pursuing a college degree, and soon at the State University equipping himself for the law. In 1896 he successfully passed the examination and obtained a law license, thereafter locating among his neighbors and friends to pursue his chosen profession.

About this time the political ghoul began to plunder the state, the vagabond and squedunk were filling high places, the reconstruction carpet bagger was again a hero, decency in public life had given place to scandal, honesty in the managementment of the State's property and franchises had been suplanted by corruption and dishonesty. The black man over whom treasures and blood had heretofore been spent and spilled, was the political boss; and the white man and the white woman, through whose veins trickled the blue blood of the Anglo-Saxon, was relegated, while the Republican political marauder had his sway. In a sister city "the silent watch was kept with sleepless vigil" until outraged manhood and insulted, virtuous womanhood of the State entered a solemn decree, that virtue, honesty and Anglo-Saxon manhood should rule, and would not be supplanted by the African. The ablest and best men in the State were marshalled into service and no man was readier to respond, or worked with more zeal or success. In recognition of these services the people of our district unanimously nominated him for the Senate in 1903. There he was faithful and energetic for his constituents and many times has he been commended and applauded by Christian men and women for the high stand he took on the questions presented to that General Assembly for solution. In 1904 he was nominated by a convention of this district as Presidential elector; with energy, fidelity and ability he canvassed the district. Having confided in him, and found our confidence never misplaced, having trusted him and always found our trust well placed, knowing his ability to do things, and his ambition to develop the Cape Fear section, and make it the most prosperous of the State, we now second the name of Hon. H. L. Godwin, of Harnett county, for nomination by this convention, and earnestly solicit for him a nomination at your hands.

We feel that Harnett county should have this honor. For fifty years we have stood by the best interests of the Cape Fear section and have always been true and loyal as citizens and Democrats; notwithstanding this, we have never had a representative in the American Congress. Like Vespasian's army, we were insignificant, small and despised at first. The time was once when it was laughingly said of us that when we went abroad we were ashamed to let our names go down on the hotel register as hailing from Harnett; but that condition no longer exists. The star of development and progress has been "the pillar of cloud by day and pillar of fire by night" by which our footsteps have been guided until at this good hour I can make the bold assertion, and truthfully too, that no county has developed materially, industrially, educationally, and last, but not least, morally, within the last ten years like ours. Her towns are now hives of industry, her countryside, the exhaustless fields from which their stores are drawn, and every stream, as it dances its way to Father Ocean expects to be harnessed and transformed into a highway for commerce or power for industry; her forests echo the roar of passing trains; and her hills and valleys smile with abundant harvests. We feel now that she is filling the destiny which God intended for her to fill.

Our agricultural army is in motion. The rallying drum beat has rolled over field and meadow; and from where the wheat locks the sunshine in its bearded sheaf, the clover field carpets the earth and the cotton whitens beneath the stars, and the tobacco quickly catches the aroma of falling rain everywhere that patient man stands above the soil or bends about the furrow, they, the farmers, are ready in squads and companies, in battalions and legions, to aid their favorite son in acquiring the preferential honor which he so much covets and desires.

Mr. Godwin is a strong believer in the Christian religion and is a frequent worshipper. He is a strong believer in punctuality in business methods and practices it fully. He is a strong advocate of all that is true and good and noble as contra-distinguished from depravity in life. He is an ideal citizen, father and husband. He believes in the doings of the good Samaritan, and in helping others.

I have seen the light of the headlight at midnight of the giant engine as it rushes along though the darkness, heedless of opposition and fearless of danger, and I thought it was grand; I have seen the light as it came over the eastern hills in all its glory, driving before it the lazy darkness like mists before a seaborn gale; until leaf and tree and blade of grass glittered like a myriad of diamonds in the morning sun, and I thought it was grand. I have seen the light at midnight as it leaped athward the storm swept sky, shivering over the chaotic clouds amidst the howling winds; until cloud and sky and the dark haunted earth flashed into a midday splendor, and I knew it was grand. But the grandest thing in all this earth, except the radiance which shines out from the Almighty Throne, is the light of a true, loyal and noble life, gathering into it benedictions from the lives of others and pointed straightway to the bosom of the everlasting God.

Such a man as I have described we present to you, and trustingly asks that you make him the nominee of this convention.

IMPROVING CITIES.

Letters to Baltimore Manufacturers' Record Indicate Progress Along All Lines in the South—Short Line Railways Projected.

Baltimore, August 18.—Letters published in this week's issue of the Manufacturers' Record from authorities of many cities and towns in the South and Southwest give details of notable activity in municipal improvements recently completed, now under way or planned for the near future, some of them merely awaiting the award of contracts, bids for some still to be opened and others depending upon the vote of citizens under authority from the Legislature. The improvements range through practically all municipal activities of the kind, quite a number of cities having three or four separate undertakings in mind. They include school buildings, costing from $45,000 to $10,000 or less, at Morgan City, La., Georgetown, S. C., Clarksville, Tenn., Tyler, Texas, Frankfort, Ky., Johnson City, Tenn., and Lafayette, La.; sewerage systems at Batesville, Ark., Argenta, Ark., Eatonton, Ga., Paragould, Ark., Key West, Fla., Pensacola, Fla., Bainbridge, Ga., and Newport, Ark.; street pavements of cement, vitrified brick, asphaltum, bithulitic, macadam, concrete, granite block or other material at Greenville, S. C., Knoxville, Tenn., Argenta, Ark., Batesvillen Ark., Independence, Mo., Tuscaloosa, Ala., Vicksburg, Miss., Winchester, Va., Columbus, Ga., Paris, Texas, and Dyersburg, Tenn., where there is a species of co-operation on the part of the general government, while plans for good roads building adjacent to Union Springs, Ala., are to be pushed at the rate of 25 miles a year; water supply improvements at Key West, Fla., Apalachicola, Fla., La Grange, Ga., Morgan City, La., Dyersburg, Tenn., Chalottesville, Va. and Winston, N. C.; city halls at Pensacola, Fla., Gainesville, Tex., Hawkinsville, Ga.; court house at Griffin, Ga., and gas plant at Albany, Ga. These undertakings are a few illustrations of the vast and widespread movement in the South for the betterment of municipal conditions involving the expenditure in the near future of several million dollars.

Another large investment in the aggregate is represented in the building of small railroads in the South. A number of short lines proposed or under construction increases daily, many of them being designed for the purpose of handling the output of such industries as coal mining, lumbering, phosphate mining and the gathering of naval stores. There is scarcely a State in the South in which the building of such lines is not in progress in a number of localities. In the mountains of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee much of the construction of small lines is done by the trunk roads as feeders, although not a few independent pieces of work are under way. In the States named a large proportion of this new building is on account of coal, although lumbering figures in the situation to some extent. Farther south in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and even beyond in Arkansas and Louisiana, the development of timber land and the products therefrom is mainly responsible for the building of many short railroads. This type of construction is particularly active just now throughout these States, and how useful it becomes in the later development of the country is now shown by the utilization of several small lines in Georgia, by means of connections, in making a through route from Augusta to the Gulf of Mexico. But it does not always happen that the first building of one of these lumber roads or even of coal lines is of small extent. For instance, the Goodyear line in Mississippi, a lumber road, is to be 100 miles long from the beginning, in addition to the trackage of the line previously built and which was purchased as the nucleus of the railroad. On the other hand the Tidewater Railroad, which will be over 400 miles long, in Virginia and West Virginia, is an example of what an influence coal mining may have upon the development of a new line.

—Garland Strother, age about 14 years, son of Mr. James Strother, of Troy, accidently shot himself while handling a gun last Monday, and about 23 hours later the boy died.

—Will Anderson, colored, was killed Thursday night north of High Point at a railroad camp. He was attempting to jump a freight to go to town when he slipped and went between the cars, breaking his neck.

—Governor Glenn was in Wilkes on Friday and delivered an address at the annual Masonic picnic. On Saturday he was in Ashe, where he spoke on industrial subjects. He is expected to be in his office in Raleigh on Monday.

—Red Springs special, Aug. 17: S. R. Towsend, of Red Springs, who was hurt by a falling tree, at his saw mill near Rockfish, is improving. He had a leg broken, and was otherwise injured. A few years ago Mr. Townsend was kicked in the face by a mule. He is about 80 years old.

—Winston-Salem special, Aug. 17: H. T. Bran, of Shore, Yadkin county, while pulling up weeds in his garden yesterday was bitten on the finger by a spreading adder snake. Shortly thereafter he was taken violently ill. The attending physician reports today that Mr. Bran's condition is more encouraging and that he will probably recover.

—Winston-Salem special, Aug. 17: Capt. John M. Robinson, coroner, after an investigation yesterday decided that an inquest over the body of Ernest Farrow, colored, who was killed Wednesday night by a shifting engine on the Norfolk & Western yard, was unnecessary. According to reports made to the coroner, Farrow, who was about 21 years old, was drinking.

—Asheville special, Aug. 17: The whereabouts of John Williams, the married man who eloped with Miss Esther Carter, a 15-year-old-girl, Saturday night, is still unknown. A message was received by the sheriff last night from the Spartanburg, S. C., authorities stating that the train on which it was thought the couple had left Asheville had been searched when it pulled into Spartanburg but that Williams and the young girl were not aboard.

—The Presbyterian church at Bowden, Duplin county, was dedicated last Sunday by its pastor, the Rev. W. M. Shaw, of Kenansville. The debt of this nice little church has all been paid with bell and a nice new organ. Rev. Mr. Shaw held a most profitable week's meeting there last week, partly assisted by Rev. Mr. W. M. P. Currie, of Wallace, who left Saturday, and Sunday the dedication service and sermon were preached by Mr. Shaw, in a most able and excelelnt manner, after which the communion service was held.

—Mount Airy Leader: The North Carolina Granite Corporation of this city, has just completed their part of the National Museum at Washington for which they received $130,000, and have just taken the contract for a $100,000 church in New Jersey. This with other important contracts, makes the quarry a scene of great activity there now, and the management will greatly increase their force in the next thirty days. Enough work is now on hand to drive the work along during the entire Summer, with more in view.

—Raleigh News and Observer, Aug. 18: Ex-Governor C. B. Aycock is here from Goldsboro on legal business and his friends, everybody worth counting, are delighted to see him. He is in fine health and fine spirits, and added to this looks for a great Democratic victory in North Carolina at the election this Fall. It is a delight to talk with him, and his room at the Yarborough is a Mecca for his friends. He says things that are worth listening to, and his talk is of the kind that does not stale. He will be in the city today and there are more warm hand shakes in store for him while here.

—Asheville special, Aug. 17: A report from the Mission Hospital today was to the effect that two of the sufferers from yesterday's horrible accident at the Hans Reese Sons Tannery were holding their own with chances of recovery, while the third man, E. W Robinson, colored, had developed septic pneumonia and little hope is entertained for his recovery. McLain, whose condition was reported critical yesterday, showed the greatest improvement today and his recovery is now practically assured. Rocket, who yesterday apepared less affected than either of the other two, was worse today. His condition, however, is favorable for recovery.

—Rocky Mount special, Aug. 17: Train No. 31 on the Atlantic Coast Line, due here from the north at 8:10 P. M. did not put in its appearance last night. A mile south of Pleasant Hill the foundations had washed from under a bridge, leaving the track suspended. The washout occurred about 6 P. M. yesterday just after No. 80, northbound had passed over the bridge. A special from Rocky Mount went up for the passengers, who were transferred across the creek on a light handcar at 9:30 this morning. The special arrived here with sixteen passengers at six o'clock this morning. Passengers traffic will probably be resumed between Weldon and Emporia some time today.

—Durham special, Aug. 17: All trains on the Seaboard road between here and Henderson were annulled today on account of washouts. The order of annulment came this morning before time for the passenger train to leave and this train and the freights lay here all day. Particulars of the washouts could not be learned, but there are several, making it impossible to transfer passengers, mail and baggage. It is learned from country people, who came in during the day that the bridge and trestle over Neuse river is safe and the supposition is that the washouts are on a creek a short distance this side of Henderson, near Dickerson. This railroad crosses the same creek at several places and it is supposed that these bridges and trestles are damaged so that it is unsafe for trains to pass over.

—Grensboro special, Aug. 17: Blind tiger patrons in Burlington, will probably go dry Sunday, since Special Revenue employe C. A. Banks, headed off yesterday a big load of contraband liquor headed that way. On the road between Reidsville and Burlington, yesterday afternoon Officer Banks, five miles from Reidsville, ran upon Mr. G. D. Sheets, who lives near Stokesdale, driving a two horse wag? on, that pulled heavy. He stopped the team, examined the cargo and found four barrels of unstamped whiskey, nicely reposing under some old bedquilts, hot as it was. The whole outfit was captured including Mr. Sheets and a boy who was with him. Today Sheets gave bond for the comfiscated property and it was released. He also gave bond before United States Commissioner Wolfe, for his appearance at the October term of the United States court.

—Greenville special, Aug. 17: Mr. George S. Prichard, of the firm of George S. Prichard & Co., and one of the leading tobacconists of our city, has recently returned from Littleton, N. C., where he, with others, purchased the celebrated Panacea springs property, which is located about three miles south of Littleton. In reply to questions asked by your correspondent, Mr. Prichard, who is general manager of this promising enterprise, advised that work for the improvement of this property will commence at once. The water, which goes to all parts of the south will be shipped the day it is bottled. A large hotel consisting of seventy-five or one hundred rooms is to be erected near the springs, and opened to guests, June 1st. no effort being spared to procure the very best accommodations. It is also planned that a trolley line be constructed from Littleton to the springs, thus making Panacea quickly and conveniently reached. General Manager Prichard is a thrifty and successful business man, and will use every means to have the Panacea water introduced and tested in all parts of the United States.

DER PENNSYLVANIER

Mischter Drucker! — Des Friehjohr is uf em Land en scheene Zeit. Net juscht, daß Alles wieder scheen grien werd, es gebt ah viel Spaß. Do sen abardig die Vendu's, was grad so interesching sen, wie en Zirkus, un was nix koschte zu sehne, weil mer nix kahfe braucht, wann mer net will. Es is en alter Gebrauch bei die pennsylvanische Baure, was juscht Lehnsleut sen, daß se schier alle Friehjohr Vendu mache. Des alt Gerimpel werd en bissel iwergepehnt un bringt oftmols schier so viel, as wie nei Sach. For die Leit in gutem Humor zu halte, daß se ah kahfe, gebt's ah ebbes zu esse un zu drinke. Juscht in letschter Zeit is es mit em Drinkes verkahfe en bissel mißlich, weil's net meh erlahbt is bei Lah. Awer en guter Wille hot als noch en Weg.— Kerzlich hot ah d'r alt Katzemichel im Schuntestädtel Vendu gemacht, un weil es bekannt war, daß er arg viel Sach zu verkahfe g'hat hot, so sen ewe ah mächtig viel Leit hiegange, abardig, weil des Wetter ah schee war. Es war eene vun die greeschte Vendu's, was des Friehjohr uf weit un breet is gehalte worre. Do ware alte Mannsleit, junge Mannsleit un ah en gute Lot Buwe. Awer net juscht Mannsleit, es ware ah Weiwer do und junge Mäd, die so elladend geguckt hen wie frische Moikersche — grad zum Anbeiße. Do war die blondhoorig Märy, die kuslich Sällie, die schwarz Melinde, die blohahgig Susy un noch en Lot anner. Kee Wunner, daß den Buwe die Köpp en wenig verdreht worre sen un daß se mehner noch den Mäd guckt hen, as wie noch die Sache, was verkahft sen worre. Wie die Vendu juscht recht im Gang war, kummt uf eemol so en großartiger Bigbug mit großer glitziger Stohfpeip, goldene Watschekett, en fänzier Spazierstock unnig em Arm un en feine Sigar im Maul. Ufkohrs hot grad Alles noch ihm geguckt un sich gewunnert, was seller Dändy do kahfe wot, wo doch kee Bänkstock, sundern juscht Bauresach verkahft werre dät. Die Mäd hen ufkohrs ihre Ahge ah net for nix bei sich g'hat un hen noch ihm hiegeblinzelt. Wie der groß Dschentelmann des gesehne hot, is er grad uf die Noschen kumme, do wär er d'r Hahn im Korb un er derft juscht zugreife. Er hot sich ah grad die Scheenst ausgepickt, is uf se zugange un hot se gefrogt, eb se Oystersupp esse dät. Es war die blond Märy un die hot ihm grad freindlich zugesagt, proveided, er dät ihre Schwestere ah Supp gewe. Wie er zu sellem agried hot, do hot se die ganz Trupp Mäd mit an den Hucksterfisch genumme. D'r Dändy hot wol ersicht en schief Gesicht gemacht, daß die Märy so viele Schwestere hot, awer er hot den Rusch geständt un sei Bill mit zwee Dhaler gesettelt. Dernoch hot er awer gemeent, er wot ah d'r Werth vun seim Geld hawe un hot sich wieder an die Märy mache welle. Do is es ihm awer iwel gange, denn grad wie er hot anfange welle zu schwätze, fliegt ihm en Ball uf sei Maul vun dene Buwe, wo in dem annere Feld am Ballspiele were. D'r Ball hot ihn so hart gedroffe, daß er schier umgeborzelt is un sei scheener glitziger Stohfpeip is uf d'r Bode in d'r Dreck gefalle. Sell hot ihn bees gemacht un er hot anfange, die Buwe zu schelte. Awer do is er schee ankumme. Bevor er's recht gewißt hot, hen se all um ihm rumgestanne un ihm die Bisnis ausgelegt, daß es ihm angst un bang is worre. For sich aus dem Strehp zu helfe, hot er se all zigelabe mit ihm zu drinke un sellerweg is er noch emol zwee dun seine Dhaler losgeworre. Sell war ihm dann awer genug for een Dag un ohne sich weiter um all die scheene Mäd zu bekimmere, hot er anfange, die Vendu zu tende. Er hot gebotte ohne zu wisse was, un uf eemol kummt es raus, daß er en alte verbrochene Schockel kahft hot for zwee Dhaler. Des hot so en Hurräh gewe all herum, daß er sich hinnig die Scheuer gedrickt hot un dann iwer die Felder dervungeschnickt is, so stark er gekennt hot. Ei, was hen die Mäd gelacht. — Wann unser Baurebuwe alsemol in die Stadt gehne, dann stelle se sich verleicht en bissel dappich an, finne awer ihr Weg doch. Wann awer so en Sitty-Duhd uf's Land kummt, dann meent er, Alles dät schun uf ihn warte un er breicht juscht zu sage: Deller, dann wär ah schun en Worscht druf. Do is er awer letz. Un bei die Mäd kann er's gar net kumme. En rechtschaffe Bauremädel bleibt bei seinesgleiche Buwe. Alsemol gebt's en Ausnahm, awer gewehnlich bringt sell en gute Lessen for Annere.

and the Board, by resolution, endorsed the idea of a crematory and recommended that the Sanitary Committee and the Superintendent of Health accompany Mr. Bell to the meeting of the Board of Audit and Finance Tuesday night and strongly urge the need of the project.

Mr. L. B. Rogers, aside from strongly urging the crematory matter, asked the Board for an appropriation of $100 for the New Hanover exhibit at the State Fair. Mr. Rogers explained at length the advantages of such an exhibit and the members present heartily endorsed the plan. The matter will come up at the called meeting for ratification on Tuesday afternoon.

Alderman Brown explained that at the last meeting he asked for an appropriation of $350 for filling in a ravine at Front and Wright streets. He stated last night that the Cly Engineer had looked over the premises and found that a retaining wall would have to be built in addition to the fill-in. This he thought would cost $650 more. He asked the Board to appropriate that amount so that he could go before the Board of Audit and Finance Tuesday night. Mr. Brown was informed that no legal action could be taken at the conference and he decided to wait for the meeting Tuesday afternoon. The conference adjourned at 10 o'clock.

DUPLIN COUNTY PRIMARIES.

Held at Various Precincts Yesterday —Results are in Doubt.

The Democratic primaries for the various county and Legislative offices in Duplin were held yesterday. A long distance telephone message from Kenansville last night says that between 1,500 and 2,000 votes were cast. There were four candidates for sheriff—L. Middleton, the present incumbent, W. J. Smith, G. G. Best and W. F. Murphy. The townships on the railroad and at Kenansville showed a big vote The election of sheriff is in doubt from the returns received last night. Middleton and Murphy were leading and the contest will likely be brought into the convention on Monday. J. J. Bowden was elected register of deeds over C. S. Carr, the present incumbent. D. H. Wallace was renominated for Clerk of the Superior Court The ticket for the Legislature and Board of County Commissioners is in doubt. The rule in the county is that if no man gets a majority in the primaries, the contest goes into the county convention and it is expected that that there will be lively times in Kenansville on Monday.

Stole His Bicycle.

Wm. Moore, a colored man from Rock Hill Plantation, lost a bicycle yesterday about noon. He stepped into the store of Mr. George Heyer, Fourth and Brunswick streets, for a moment and when he came out the wheel was gone. He is certain that the machine was stolen by a negro named Arthur Vaughn, who was seen riding a bicycle out the county road some time later. It is a Racycle machine, No. 83,657 and Moore would pay a reward for its recovery.

In Effect September 15th.

Southport Herald: "We are very reliably informed that the agreement between the two river steamboats companies will go into effect on September 15th all the papers relating thereto having been signed, sealed and delivered. The present mail schedule will be maintained and there have been no changes in schedule reported as yet except the taking of the Sea Gate off the run entirely."

duction. On the 5th., will be seen "The Little Duchesse." On the 6th., the booking is "Her Own Way," a strong drama that will be sure to please. On the 12th., theatre-goers will have the rare opportunity of seeing Arthur Dunn, the noted comedian, in "The Little Joker." On the 20th., Master Gabriel who "stormed the town" last season in "Buster Brown" will be seen in "Little Bo-Peep." This will be a big scenic production and more than a score of live animals will be used in the environment of the piece. On the 22nd., George Ade's big success "The County Chairman" will hold the boards. The last day of the month will witness the return, after an absence of many years, of George Primrose's Minstrels, formerly Primrose & West.

Other booking before Christmas include both of the Tom Dixon dramatizations, "The One Woman" and "The Clansman," which created such a furore in the theatrical world last season. Then there will be Florence Davis, who was seen last year in "The Player Maid;" the "Irish Pawnbroker," a comedy production; Creston Clarke, the noted tragedian; "Are You a Mason,' and many others.

Among the after-Christmas offerings will be Black Patti, a return of 'Buster Brown,' "My Wife's Family," "Our New Minister,' a big revival of "The Two Orphans," the Dixie Minstrels, James O'Neill, "Parsifal," "When Knighthood Was in Flower' and a score of others just as notable.

Two lyceum attractions held over from last season will be given early this season by Messrs. Cowan Brothers to complete the bookings of the course, which for a number of reasons could not be finished last year. There will, however, be no lyceum offerings at the threatre the coming season.

In a few days the theatre will be opened up for a thorough renovation and a number of improvements will be made. An excellent corps of assistants at the theatre are being signed and everything will be in readiness for the "grand opening" with Murray & Mack on the 7th., of the coming month

CLARENCE MILLS & COMPANY.

New Concern Will Open Shortly—Mr. Mills to go North.

Mr. Frank T. Mills will leave early this week for Baltimore, Cincinnati and Philadelphia where he will purchase a full and complete line of harness and saddlery for the new firm of Clarence Mills & Co., which will open about the first of the month, in the handsome new building recently erected by Mr. Mills, on North Second street. The building has large quarters and show windows admirably adapted to the vehicle, harness and saddlery business and Mr. Clarence Mills will carry a stock that is in every way in keeping with the demands of the town and surrounding country. Mr. F. T. Mills will devote all his time to the live stock business while his son will attend to the other department. The new firm already has three car loads of buggies on the way and these will be opened up early in the coming month.

YACHT RACE CALLED OFF.

None of Fleet Could Finish in Time Limit.

Owing to the time limit imposed and the light breeze, none of the yachts finished in the race of the Carolina Yacht Club fleet at Wrightsville Beach yesterday afternoon and the regatta will probably be sailed over the last of this week.

The time limit imposed was 2:10 and by expiration of that none of the yachts had gotten more than two-thirds around the course. The race, therefore, had to be called off. The boats started off in the following order: Yonalee, Question, Carolina, Puzzle, Kaymbe and Don Julian. When the fleet was called in Puzzle was well in the lead with Don Julian second, the Kayembe third and the Question fourth. The other two boats had a foul and dropped out before the expiration of the time limit.

The judges of the contest were Messrs. F. A. Lord and R. C. Cantwell and while the regatta was on the white-winged flyers were watched with much admiration from a large number from the club pier. The rules and regulations will be so revised for the meet this week, that there will certainly be a conclusion.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY.

Important Meeting to be Held Thursday Morning—To Veterans.

An important meeting of Cape Fear Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, is called to be held Thursday morning of this week at the W. L. I. armory and it is expected that every member will be present. An official notice of the meeting is given elsewhere in to-day's paper together with a list of veterans to whom the ladies are ready to present Crosses of Honor. The Daughters especially desire that every one of these veterans be present as the opportunity of the presentation may not present itself again. The veterans out of the city especially are requested to take note of this meeting.

Prominent T. P. A.'s Coming.

Both the National and the State presidents of the Travellers' Protective Association are expected to visit the Wilmington post within the next two or three weeks and already the local travellers are making arrangements to give them a cordial reception. The National President is Thad. H. Howe, of Chicago, Ill., and the State President is Mr. C. C. McLean, of the McLean Grocery Company, of Greensboro. The social features which will mark the coming of the distinguished visitors will probably take place at Wrightsville Beach.

FUNERAL OF MRS. STRUTHERS.

Brief Services Here, Remains Taken to Grists Yetserday.

From the residence of Mr. J. A. Springer, Fifth and Princess streets, early yesterday afternoon brief funeral services were conducted by Rev. Fred. D. Hale, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, over the remains of the late Mrs. H. L. Struthers, of Grists, who passed away in the James Walker Memorial Hospital Friday night. A number of friends of Mrs. Struthers and the family were present and many beautiful floral tributes were laid on the casket.

The remains were taken on the 3:45 P. M. train to Grists for interment, the pall-bearers from he residence to the station having been Messrs. L. H. Simmons, J. C. Springer, D. H. Penton, W. P. Toon, H. T. Bauman and D. McEachern.

GEN. METTS ENDORSED.

Fayetteville Camp of Veterans Want Him for Commander.

Fayetteville, N. C., Aug. 18.—At the regular meeting of Camp No. 852, United Confederate Veterans here last night, Adjutant A. A. McKethan brought up the matter of transferring the camp to another division, and also as to a successor to Gen. Julian S. Carr. Mr. J. H. Myrover offered the following resolution, which was unanimously passed:

Resolved, 1st. That Camp 852, United Confederate Veterans, tenders its thanks to Gen. Julian S. Carr for his past services as commander of the Confederate Veterans of North Carolina

2nd. That this camp places in nomination, as the choice of the old Southern soldiers of Cumberland, at the election on the 23rd of August, that gallant soldier, Gen. J. I. Metts, of Wilmington, to succeed Gen Carr.

Saturday Night Slashing.

A negro came to Fourth and Harnett streets early last night badly slashed up with a knife and bleeding profusely. He had been fighting in the neighborhood somewhere and wanted to go to the hospital. The ambulance was summoned, and he was taken there for tredtment.

TERRORISTS' WORK IN WARSAW

Thirty-eight Dead Found in Streets. Hundreds Wounded.

Berlin, August 18.—The Warsaw correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung gives the following description:

The population is terribly distressed, and there is hardly any street traffic on account of the insecurity of life. All the hospitals are so overcrowded that patients are obliged to lie on the floors and passages. In the morgue there are still lying 38 dead who were found in the streets. It is not known how many have been buried secretly during the night by the police. It is impossible to ascertain the number of dead or wounded. Dr. Lortenwicz, and his assistants in the hospital in the suburb of Wola, bandaged the wounds of 472 persons. The center of the town is quiet, but it is most dangerous to enter the Jewish quarter.

DRAGO DOCTRINE AFFIRMED.

South Americans Opposed to Collection of Debts by Force.

(By Cable to The Morning Star.)

Rio De Janeirio, August 18.—The International American Conferences' full committee on the Drago doctrine, which declares against the use of armed force for the collection of public debts, to-day signed the resolution as adopted on Friday, suggesting that individual companies ask The Hague tribunal to take up and pass upon the merits of the proposition.

The sanitary committee to-day adopted, with slight modifications, the principles of the sanitation convention at Washington, recommending the adoption by the governments of such measures as will tend to the prevention of epidemics and the reduction of mortality from contagious diseases.

PREACHER'S SON MURDERED.

Stabbed to Death in Alley at Bristol, Va.

Bristol, Va., August 18.—Scott Howington, son of an aged preacher of Bristol, was stabbed to death by Muncy Talley, of Johnson City, Tenn., in a row in an alley adjacent to a saloon on Lee street here late this afternoon. Talley stabbed his victim in the breast and the knife pierced the heart, killing him almost instantly. Talley was pursued, but made his escape and is still at large. A posse is in pursuit and officers have been sent to nearby towns.

SERIOUS INCENDIARY FIRE.

Hat Factory at Orange, N. Y., Destroyed—Loss $300,000.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Orange, N. J., August 18.—A fire which followed a violent explosion today destroyed the hat factory of Frederick Cummings' Sons & Co., causing a loss of about $300,00 and throwing five hundred persons out of employment. Last night a fire occurred in the stock room of the factory, doing $7,000 worth of damage. Shortly after this a blaze in another part of the building was discovered and ertinguished with small loss. A fire of mysterious origin did $30,000 worth of damage at the factory last October. and a few days ago a quantity of rubbish was found piled up and burning in an alley between the hat factory and the adjoining building.

A Mother's Logic

[Original.]

"Mother," said John Grimshaw, "I've lost Mary Garland."

"Oh, John, you don't mean it."

"I do. She's come home engaged."

Mrs. Grimshaw sighed. She was her son's only confidant and knew only too well what a blow this was to him.

"The worst of it is," he continued, "she is throwing herself away on a spendthrift."

"Serves her right. She has treated you very badly, John."

"Not at all."

"Was she not leading you to believe that she would marry you?"

"That's badly put, mother. She was disposed in my favor, but had not made up her mind. And even if she had accepted me I should not think of holding her to her promise against her inclination. I hold that there is nothing amiss in breaking an engagement. Suppose she should find that this man with whom she has fallen in love were unworthy, should she marry him?"

"Certainly not, but she has not discovered that you are unworthy."

"Oh, mother," he replied, putting his arms about her neck and kissing her, "your woman's logic will be the death of me."

It was true that Mary Garland had intended to marry John Grimshaw, but a season in the city, during which Clarence Denbigh, a helter skelter, devil may care fellow, had paid her marked attention, had changed her intention. John was a plodder, and, as she expressed it after meeting Denbigh, "the worst kind of a one." In company Denbigh would sail all around him and win the race besides.

Mary possessed a comfortable fortune in her own right, which she had inherited from her father. She missed that father's assistance, having no one she could trust to make inquiries about Denbigh. Unfortunately she engaged herself to him and endeavored herself to find out something about his character afterward. But no one was rash enough to accuse her accepted lover, and information was shut off. A girl had spoken of Denbigh in her hearing as a spendthrift, but as Mary was sure the girl wanted him herself the accusation had little effect.

John Grimshaw wished her much happiness in her engagement without referring to anything that had passed between them. She accepted his offering with a sober face. When he spoke she had been back from the city a month and something of the glamour of city life had worn off. She was worried that she could get no information about Denbigh and thought that had it not been for her past relations with Grimshaw he would be just the person to find out for her and tell her truly what he had learned. John's cool manner of taking his disappointment piqued her, and, being piqued, she chose to retort. And this is how she did it. She sent for him one evening to come and see her. She said to him:

"Mr. Grimshaw, I am a woman with no father to find out whether my fiance is a worthy person. You are a man and can soon learn the truth for me. Will you do me this favor?"

"It is impossible for two reasons. The first is that anything I might say would be considered prejudiced. The second is that an unfavorable report might endanger your good opinion of me. All I could do would be to put you on a way to find out for yourself."

"Please do so."

"Do you suspect any weakness in your lover."

"Only one. I have heard he is a spendthrift."

"Would it be sufficient to discover the truth of this one point of weakness?"

"It would. I may be very silly, but not fool enough to marry a spendthrift."

"A spendthrift," said Grimshaw after reflection, "never spares anything, no matter how sacred, that he can turn into money. I would suggest that you give your fiance a valuable ring. If he is a spendthrift he will pawn it, which, not living in the same city with you, he can do with some show of safety. If he does, when he sees you again he will rob Peter to pay Paul and redeem it, but a ring constantly worn leaves its mark. Do you understand?"

"I do."

One spring morning Mr. Denbigh received by express a handsome snake ring, such as was fashionable among gentlemen at the time, with two fine diamonds for eyes. Two months later he received a telegram to join his fiancee immediately. He obeyed the summons and as soon as he arrived took occasion to hold up his ring to show the sparkle and his appreciation of the gift at the same time. Miss Garland asked him to slip it on her finger. He did so, leaving his own brown one without the slightest trace of a mark. His fiancee accused him of not having worn it—in fact, of having pawned it. Though a spendthrift he was not a liar and admitted that he had with difficulty rescued it from the pawnbroker an hour before leaving the city.

What further passed between the lovers no one knew. The next time Mary Garland met the man who suggested the device to test Denbigh she wore a troubled look, and John surmised that she had made the test and it had revealed the truth. The problem now was, Had she the resolution to dismiss him, her lover?

"Mother," said John Grimshaw a few weeks later, "Mary is going to marry Denbigh after all. She found something so delightfully frank in his confession that she couldn't give him up."

"I told you, John, that she had treated you very badly, and you couldn't expect anything better of her."

WHEN STAMPS WERE NEW.

Trouble In Getting People to Stick Them on the Envelope.

"When postage stamps first came into use," said a veteran postal clerk, "the public didn't know how to handle them. You remember how, when tea and coffee first appeared among us, the people fried the tea leaves and the coffee berries and served them with salt and pepper? Well, the people treated their stamps as absurdly in 1854.

"Some folks would put the stamps inside their letters, out of sight. Here is the official notice that we issued to stop that practice."

The clerk took from the drawer an aged bulletin that said:

"The stamps upon all letters and packages must be affixed on the outside thereof and above the address thereon."

He put back this bulletin and drew forth another one.

"People would pin the stamps on their letters instead of gumming them," he said, "and when they did gum them they would not do it right; hence this second bulletin," and he read:

"'Persons posting letters should affix the requisite number of stamps previous to depositing them in the letter receivers, as when posted in a damp state the stamps are liable to rub off and thereby cause the letters to be treated as unpaid. Do not pin on the stamps.'

"Still," said the clerk, "the public didn't understand. Think of it—it didn't understand the simple matter of sticking a postage stamp on a letter. So we got out a third bulletin."

The third bulletin, in big, impatient letters, said:

"The simplest and most effectual method of causing stamps to adhere firmly is first to moisten well the outside of the stamps and afterward the gummed side slightly, taking care not to remove the gum."

The clerk said that a philatelist had offered him $12 apiece for these three queer bulletins.—Galveston Tribune.

He Was In Such a Hurry.

A man who has resided in Cairo told this tale as an illustration of the dilatory ways of Arabian trades people:

"A certain gentleman ordered a swing to be erected in his garden for the use of his little boy, aged six. He waited and waited, but the swing never arrived. In due course of time that boy grew up to man's estate and became himself the father of a little boy. When his son was six years old he remembered how his own father had ordered a swing to be made for him. So he called on the tradesman, who lived at his gate, and asked him to send up the swing that had been ordered twenty years before. The man agreed to do so. The little boy, becoming impatient after three weeks, his father called again and remonstrated with the Arabian as to his unfaithfulness. The indignant tradesman replied that he could not really undertake to serve any one who was in such a fearful hurry."

CAREER OF J. B. DUKE
HEAD OF TOBACCO TRUST

North Carolinian, Worth $30,000,000, Tells How He Got His Start—His Intelligence and Craft of Great Company.

(New York Commercial.)

Under oath with the lawyers on the other side in nagging pursuit, James Buchanan Duke, the intelligence, craft and energy of the "tobacco trust," so-called, recently admitted that he was worth $30,000,000. The roots of this fortune were two blind mules and 50 cents in Yankee silver. Also, there was a snarled and barren farm.

While he talked recently to James B. Morrow on this subject, Mr. Duke moved around in his chair with energy. There is a slight drawl in his words—a gift to the South from the jungles of Africa—but he speaks with animation, and, touching matters of principles, with the decisive tone of of conviction. He is a tall, robust man, with thin, reddish hair, dark blue eyes and a smooth, florid face. His clothing was as plain as a farmer's. A person who is familiar with him says he never has tasted intoxicating liquor.

"My father," Mr. Duke said, "was the wisest and best man I ever have known. Until he was forty-five years old he had lived in the country, out of contact with the world, away from his narrow community, but he went into a business and made a fortune. In his youth he rented land and with his meagre savings bought a farm. At the opening of the Civil War he owned over three hundred lean acres. At the age of forty he joined the Confederate army.

"On the retreat from Richmond he was captured by the enemy, but soon released. He walked home, one hundred and thirty-five miles, and sent for me, Brodie L., my half-brother, Benjamin Newton, my own brother, and Mary Elizabeth, my sister. I was nine years old and Mary was twelve. The whole family went to work. Mary was housekeeper. We always regarded her as being a member of the firm. She was consulted and paid her share of the profits along with the rest of us. During his long tramp toward home my father traded a $5 Confederate note for fifty cents in Yankee silver. He bought two blind mules on credit from my uncle. With his thin acres, his children, his blind mules and his half dollar he began the business of growing tobacco on little patches of land near the house. In fact, he couldn't have grown anything else.

"Johnston's army and Sherman's 'bummers,' as they were called, had been through that part of North Carolina, and coming upon hidden stores of 'bright' tobacco, golden in color, liked it. After the war and the soldiers had gone to their homes many of them wrote to the postmaster at Durham, and he filled their orders. So it was that our tobacco got a wide reputation. Our crops at first were small. We cured the tobacco in a log barn under which we had a fire to give it the right color.

"Yellow tobacco formerly was produced in but three counties of North Carolina. Now it is a good crop in certain parts of South Carolina. It is grown by small farmers, and with the use of fertilizers will pay from $50 to $60 an acre. All of our cigarette and much of our smoking tobacco, costing from twenty to twenty-five millions a year, comes from that region.

"I had an opportunity to attend college, but I did not accept it. Instead, at the age of eighteen, I asked my father to take me into business as a partner, and he did so, giving me a sixth of the property and profits. He was then making about $7,000 a year, had given up farming, and had started a factory in Durham. He would have been better pleased, however, if I had gone to school.

"Our first factory in Durham was a wooden building seventy feet long, forty feet wide and three stories high. We employed fifteen hands. Such was the establishment into which I was admitted as a partner, when I was eighteen years old. It wasn't long before our buildings covered ten acres of ground.

"In 1883 our capital was $70,000 and the business was owned by my father, his three sons and a man in Richmond, Va. I came to New York in 1884 to give the manufacture of cigarettes my personal attention. I realized that hand labor was too slow and costly and that a machine would have to do the work. The other manufacturers laughed at me and were free to predict that I would end in bankruptcy. I spent most of my time experimenting with a crude machine which I had bought.

"I toiled all day at the factory and at night took my cigarettes under my arm and urged them upon the retail dealers. No man ever worked harder or longer than I did between the years 1884 and 1890. I am glad to say that my labor was successful. I became acquainted with a broker in leaf tobacco, a shrewd but eccentric man and he loaned me $40,000. No one else in New York would have loaned me 40,000 cents. But he had faith in my plans and confidence in me; and I got the money.

"Then from time to time I bought 380,000 chairs at fifty cents apiece and gave them away with my cigarettes. The chairmaker said he was no prophet, but he knew I would end my meteoric splurge with the help of an assignee. I think I have spent more money in advertising than has any other living man. How much? Fifty million dollars, I should say, in one way or another.

"I managed the business in Durham as well as here. In 1890 we sold everything we had to the company of which I am now the president. We received $7,500,000 in securities. The business we turned over to the new company returned a profit of $1,400,000 the first year.

"It takes years and barrels of money to establish a brand of tobacco and make it profitable to the manufacturer. We lost a million and a half a year for four years fighting the men who produced the best plug tobacco in the world. They had a safe and highly successful business and it would have taken us ten years to make our brand profitable; even then they would have had their own brand and process and only the worst possible management could have injured them. But they became frightened and sold out."

"A case of pure nerve on your part?"

"And money. Nerve is all right, but it is not effective unless fortified with money. Nerve with an empty pocketbook is bluff, and bluff is the common refuge for cowardice and impecuniosity.

"When my four partners and I were making $200,000 a year in our business we each drew $166.66 a month and no more. I saw to that. There were complaints and on one occasion a threat. 'You own but one-fifth of the concern,' my partners said: 'We shall vote a dividend over your head. We have families and must live.' 'If you do,' I replied, 'I quit.' The dividend wasn't authorized, and the money which would have been necessary had it been voted was employed to extend our business."

"Can a man earn a fortune?"

"Not on a salary, nor by the sweat of his brow. Necessarily one must be economical and self-denying until he has capital with which to begin business. Thousands of men are doing well, but they spend every cent they earn. Having obtained a little capital by industry and frugality, the man who wants a fortune must see some need of the public and then pitch in and supply it, no matter what it costs."

DRYGOODS MARKET.

New York, August 18.—Trade for the day in dry goods was on a quiet side, although shipping rooms were busy. The chief difficulty for the moment is to get goods for quick delivery. Selling of some short ends of export fabrics has a sharper sentiment effect than the actual state for stock warrants, and some shrewd buyers are making the most of any transactions reported. The high price of wool and the close figures at which woolen goods are selling lessened the profits of woolen houses.

NAVAL STORES.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

The Pretender

[Original.]

A carriage drew up to a handsome country residence in New England and a young man apparently about eighteen, with a perfectly smooth cheek and a delicate manner, stepped out and entered the house. He was met in the hall by an elderly lady, who received him coldly, though she permitted him to kiss her cheek.

"I will not conceal from you," she said, "that I have brought up your cousin Elton to suppose that he was the heir to this estate, and your appearance is a disappointment to me. However, I will make the best of it and treat you with every consideration."

A man of thirty, with an honest, manly countenance, came into the room and, without waiting for an introduction to the newcomer, went to him, put out his hand frankly, and said:

"I am Elton Parmeter, and I suppose you are my cousin Gus. You are heir to an estate I have supposed from my childhood I would inherit. If I bore you the slightest malice I would despise myself."

Augustus Parmeter looked up into the face of his cousin with a grateful but pained expression, and a tear glistened in his eye.

"Come," said Elton cheerily. "I want to show you your possessions."

Years before this scene was enacted Ralph Parmeter ran away with and married Martha Redmond, the daughter of a penniless attorney. From the time of his departure till a few weeks before the appearance of Augustus Parmeter Ralph's mother heard nothing of her son. Then one day she received a note from a lawyer presenting the claims of one who purported to be Ralph's son, Augustus. The claim was supported by affidavits furnished by Augustus' mother, stating that Ralph, the father, was dead and Augustus was his son and heir.

Augustus was as delicately made as Elton was manly. Elton tried to infuse more vim into the boy, but his efforts were a failure. Augustus also made a bad return for his cousin's friendly treatment and was always bringing up the matter of the dispossession. When Augustus mentioned the subject Elton would knit his brow or attempt to laugh his cousin out of his dissatisfaction, but never succeeded. As time went on the possessor of the estate appeared to be miserable, while the one he had dispossessed was happy.

"Gus, my dear boy," said Elton one day, "if you don't stop bothering yourself and me about this business I'll leave the place. I confess I don't want to do so, because Aunt Caroline would miss me."

"You think only of Aunt Caroline," said Gus gloomily. "You never think of me."

"You! Why, my dear boy, I'm as fond of you as my younger brother, and if you'll only be satisfied to accept what rightfully belongs to you we may all be happy together as long as we live."

While Augustus was an unmanly fellow, he was so kindly disposed to every one about him, so self sacrificing, that after awhile the household forgave him for turning up to dispossess their favorite and began to love him in a very different way from what they loved Elton. Indeed, the cousins were very unlike—the one a typical man; the other a sensitive, tender hearted little chap with a winning way. Elton became much attached to him, the only fault he had to find with him being his constantly bringing up the one unpleasant subject of the dispossession.

One night they were together when Augustus especially irritated his cousin by proposing some ridiculous scheme by which he might turn over the estate to him. Elton laughed, whereupon the boy went to his room, and as he departed Elton thought he saw tears glisten in his eye. Augustus always locked his bedroom door, admitting that he was afraid of burglars, but this time he forgot to do so. Elton finished a cigar he was smoking, then concluded to go to Augustus to apologize for laughing at him and thank him for his proffered surrender. Giving a rap on the door, without waiting for a reply he threw it open.

There stood Augustus before a mirror with an uncovered bosom that belonged unmistakably to a woman. Seeing Elton, she first paled, then the blood rushed to her cheeks in a torrent as she seized a cloak and threw it over her shoulders. Elton stood looking at her, thunderstruck.

"I am glad the secret is out," wailed the girl. "I was forced into it by mother, and it's been killing me."

It was some time before Elton uttered a word. He was thinking. Finally he spoke:

"Keep this from the others until I have concluded what is best to be done." Then, turning, he left the room.

One morning Augustus' room was found vacant, a note having been left on the dresser:

My mother was Ralph Parmeter's wife. After Ralph Parmeter's death my mother married William Hoye. I am her daughter, Augusta Hoye.

Elton Parmeter entered again upon the possession of his rights and resolutely declined to prosecute any one who had fraudulently deprived him of them. Mrs. Parmeter died soon after all this happened, and in due time Elton Parmeter announced that he was to be married. There was great expectation in the household and among his friends as to his future wife, who was not known to any of them. The wedding took place abroad, and when the newly married pair returned to their home the bride was at once recognized as the pretender.

MANY MUTINEERS TO BE EXECUTED

Seventeen Sailors of Cruiser Pamyat and Ten Mutineers at Cronstadt Condemned.

OTHERS GIVEN LONG TERMS.

Attempt to Assassinate Governor General at Warsaw—Three Bombs Thrown at His Carriage From Balcony of Residence.

(By Cable to The Morning Star.)

Warsaw, August 18.—Three bombs were thrown to-day at the Governor General's carriage from a third floor of a house on Natolinsk street. Two of them exploded behind the carriage without damaging it, but breaking the windows of all the neighborng houses. Gendarmes surrounded and searched the house from which the bombs were thrown, but the perpetrators of the outrage had disappeared. On the balcony where the bomb throwers stood, the police found a fourth, unexploded bomb. t is said that the Governor General sustained concussion of the brain.

Infantry patrols, reinforced by artillery, had been called out and it is reported that owing to the increase in the revolutionary movement the proclamation of a state of siege is imminent.

Twenty-seven Mutineers to Be Shot.

St. Petersburg, August 18.—Seventeen of the sailors of the cruiser Pamyat Azova, who mutinied August 2, and one agitator arrested in connection with the mutiny, who were condemned to death by a court-martial, were executed at Reval to-day.

Twelve other sailors were sentenced to hard labor for periods varying from six to ten years, thirteen were drafted to the disciplinary battles, fifteen were condemned to various disciplinary penalties and thirty-four were acquitted. Three civilians implicated in the mutiny were handed over to the civil authorities for trial.

Cronstadt, August 18.—Ten of the mutineers who have been on trial here have been condemned to death, fifteen were acquitted and 122 sentenced to terms of imprisonment at hard labor.

THREE AUTOMOBILISTS KILLED.

Train Ran Into It At Asbury Park Last Night.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Asbury Park, N. J., August 18.—Three automobilists were killed and another fatally injured at Allaire Crossing on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near here to-night when an express train crashed into the automobile of J. George Laffargue, a piano manufacturer of New York. Mr. Laffargue, his wife and Mrs. Charles Lurch were instantly killed. Mr. Lurch, the only other occupant of the car, was unconscious when picked up and is in a precarious condition.

Mr. Laffargue handled the car himself and as the party approached the crossing the car was going at a good speed. As it swept upon the tracks a train crashed into it and the occupants were thrown high into the air. The car was hurled thirty feet and wrecked against the Allaire station. When assistance arrived Mr. and Mrs. Laffargue and Mrs. Lurch were dead and Mr. Lurch barely alive. No hope of his recovery is held out.

CLASH OVER DIVORCE DATA.

New York Supreme Court Refuses to Allow Records Searched.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, August 18.—There was a clash to-day between officials of the State Supreme Court and Wm. H. Jarvis, who is in charge of a corps of young women, sent here by the United States Census Bureau to gather data in divorce proceedings. The court officials refused to allow Jarvis to open sealed envelopes containing records of a divoree case in which adultery was alleged, and which have been closed against inspection by order of the Supreme Court. The records in question related to the divorce proceedings of former Sheriff James A. Flack from whom his wife legaly separated in July, 1889. The effort of Mr. Jarvis and his assistants to get at the information desired in other cases has also caused sharp discussion between Mr. Jarvis and the court officials. It is expected that the officials of the Census Bureau will be consulted by Mr. Jarvis.

GREAT CALAMITY AT VALPARAISO

Chief City of Chile Prey to Earthquake and Fire. Loss of Life Estimated at from 1,000 to 5,000.

SUCCESSIVE SHOCKS TERRIFY PEOPLE

INHABITANTS HAVE DESERTED SHATTERED HOUSES AND FLEEING TO COUNTRY—DISTURBANCE COVERS WIDE AREA AND NUMEROUS TOWNS ARE IN RUINS, WITH LOSS OF LIFE. SANTIAGO SUFFERED SEVERELY— ORIGIN OF QUAKES PROBABLY VOLCANIC.

Fully five thousand persons, according to the latest dispatch from Santiago De Chile, lost their lives in the Valparaiso disaster. Santigo also suffered severely. Thirty people were killed there, and the property loss is placed at $2,000,000.

Except the foregoing, no estimates of the damages and casualties caused by the earthquake in Chile had been received at New York up to 11 o'clock last night, and the above dispatch lacks confirmation. Panic reigns in both cities. The people are in the grip of fear of further shocks and are fleeing. Refugees from Valparaiso are getting into Santiago, 42 miles away.

The disturbances have covered a large area. Shocks were felt in Tacna, in the extreme north of Chile. Valparaiso has been described as "nearly destroyed," while another message says half that city has become a prey to the earthquake and the flames. The loss of life and property undoubtedly was very heavy.

Telegraph communication has been established with Chile, but no messages have yet been received from Valparaiso.

The first shock occurred Thursday evening about 8 o'clock, and was followed by others at intervals throughout the night. Panic prevails and the steamers were filled with hysterical, wailing and praying people. Half the inhabitants of Santiago stayed on the streets or fled to the country Thursday night. Fires followed in Santiago, but were quickly extinguished by a heavy providential downpour. Valparaiso suffered much from fire. Many people have left the two cities and the stream of refugees continues.

The disturbances are confined to the Pacific slope of the Andes, but Inqueque, the centre of the nitra industry, has escaped injury. The disturbance was recorded by seismographs in Washington, Honolulu, Hamburg and Goet Tinger.

Various firms in Europe and America, with business interests in Chile, have received messages announcing the safety of employes.

Among the places reported to have been damaged or destroyed are Vina Del Mar, 12,000 people, three miles from Valparaiso; Quilque and Limache, of 4,000 people each, both in Valparaiso province; Quillota, 26 miles from Valparaiso; Illapel, 5,000 people, 130 miles northwest of Santiago; Vallenar, 5,000 people, 300 miles north of Santiago, and other small towns.

Houses in Valparaiso and Santiago, as well as other towns in Chile, are built to withstand earthquake. They are made of stone with thick walls and are seldom more than two stories high. They are therefore not very combustible as was the case in San Francisco.

Disaster Appalling.

Galveston, Aug. 18.—Valparaiso has been wrecked by earthquake and fire and the few buildings that escaped serious damage from the quakes have either burned or are in immediate danger of being burned. The people are panic-stricken and all attempts at organization have proven futile. Martial law has been proclaimed and an effort is being made to calm the people, but with little hope, as the earthquakes still continue up to this afternoon, five shocks being felt to-day, although not so frequent nor violent, but enough to keep the people in a state of terror.

The Mexican cable was in operation all day to Valparaiso, but to interior points all overland wires are down, and it will be several days before they are restored. The entire business portion of Valparaiso has been destroyed.

The authorities will not permit any lights in the buildings, and at dark the cable office was closed for the night. The dead and injured are estimated at one thousand, while wild rumors place the figures at four thousand. However, owing to the lack of a systematic report, all figures are speculation.

The shocks have continued since Thursday night and five slight shocks were felt to-day. The operators of the Cable Company have deserted their posts, with one exception. The shipping in the harbor escaped damage and every vessel is a haven for refuge. All buildings have been deserted. Practically nothing has been done in the way of clearing wrecks or searching for dead bodies and laborers refuse to enter the ruins because of the continued shocks. Soldiers will force the rescue work to-morrow.

Flames and Quakes Continue.

Buenos Ayres, August 18.—A telegram received here from Punta Devaras says that a train from Santiago, Chile, due to arrive there yesterday evening, had not reached the former place.

Seismic disturbances on the Chilean side of the Andes continue. Further severe shocks were felt yesterday evening, the first at 8:40 and the second at 8:50.

The director of telegraphs here has received a telegram from La Pase, Bolivia, announcing that according to a message from the chief of the Telegraph Company at Tacna, Valparaiso is in flames and the earthquake continues.

Five Thousnd Killed.

Santiago, Chile, August 18.—It is reported from Valparaiso that five thousand deaths resulted from the earthquake there. Details are incomplete, as there is no direct communication between Valparaiso and Santiago. In this city there were thirty deaths. The value of property destroyed will reach $2,000,000. The earthquake lasted three and a half minutes.

All the telegraph and telephone lines were interrupted for some time, and yet there is no news regarding the extent of the damage done in the provinces.

A few fires broke out, but these were promptly extinguished by heavy showers after the earthquake.

Practically half the population passed the night in the squares or avenues of the city. The Observatory seismemograph was rendered useless by the violent shocks.

People Take Refuge on Ships.

Lima, Peru, August 18.—Heavy earthquake shocks occurred in Valparaiso at intervals during Thursday night and damaged a number of buildings, some of them falling into the streets and rendering traffic dangerous. The troops were called out and shot all pillagers. Many persons were killed by falling walls. The survivors camped on the hills and in open spaces. A number of people also sought refuge on board vessels in the harbor of Valparaiso.

Vienna, Delmar, a town about three miles from Valparaiso, having a population of about 12,000; Quil Pique, province of Valparaiso, with about 4,000, and Limache, twenty-five miles from Valparaiso, population about 4,000, are reported to be in ruins.

Disturbance is Volcanic.

Buenos Ayres, August 18.—A dispatch received here from La Pase says says that reports received there show that the earthquake shocks continue at Valparaiso, where panic prevails. Fire originated in the Plaza de Orden, and is rapidly spreading to the northern portion of the city.

The dispatch adds that it is officially confirmed from La Zorena, Chile, that much damage was done at Valparaiso and that mny persons were killed or injured.

A storm is reported in the Bay of Valparaiso.

The disturbances were volcanic in the northernmost province of Chile. Loud rumblings were heard at La Zorena. The villages of Illapel, 130 miles northwest of Santiago, and Vallenan, about 300 miles north of the capital, each having a population of about 5,000, were destroyed.

Wild Estimates by Fugitives.

Buenos Ayres, August 18.—A dispatch received here by the Havas Agency says:

"News of the catastrophe at Valparaiso is beginning to come in here. Fugitives who have arrived on horseback from the stricken city describe a condition of horror. It is believed, however, that the condition of extreme panic has resulted in exaggeration of the occurrence. Almost all the houses in Valparaiso are said to be down. The fugitives estimate the number of dead and wounded there at 10,000. Entire streets are buried in ruins. Fires which broke out immediately after the earthquake added to the terror and danger. Sixty thousand people have taken refuge on the hills surrounding the city. Lack of water prevents efforts to extinguish the flames. It is reported that the building of the arsenal, naval school and navy department have fallen, as well as the custom house, the Hotel Royal, the offices of the Mescurio and the houses of Ross & Edwards. The Bank of Chile and the Bank Tarapacay Argentina also are in ruins.

SANTO DOMINGO HAS REVOLUTION

Rebel Bands Capture Town and Kill Twenty People During Fighting.

STATE OF ANARCHY EXISTS

Revolution Is in Interest of Former President Jiminez, Who Arrived in New York Last Night. Traffic Suspended.

(By Cable to The Morning Star.)

Cape Haytien, Hayti, August 18.—A serious revolution, according to advices received here by courier to-day, has broken out in Santo Domingo. Revolutionary bands, under the command of Gen. Navarro, are said to have landed near Rivire and to have attacked and captured Dajabon, which was pillaged and abandoned after 20 persons had been killed.

The revolutionists are now said to be near Guayabin and to be marching on to Montecristi. The arrival of Gen. Deschamps is an anxiously awaited by the revolutionists. It is understood that he will assume command of the forces and operate against the government in favor of former President Jiminez.

A state of anarchy prevails in the northern part of Santo Domingo. All commerce with the interior has been stopped and traffic in the northern districts has been prohibited.

Jiminez In New York.

New York, August 18.—Gen. Jiminez, ex-President of Santo Domingo, was a passenger on the steamer Coamo, which arrived from Porto Rico to-night.
